Commons Committee Complaint

Rebel Bares Rubber-Stamp Orders

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA (Special) - Mav-Toronto Liberal MP Steve Otto, a seven-year member of the Commons, quite flatly reports:

"I said it because it had to be said, and something good like freedom of speech in parliamentary committees may come out of it."

What he said - and wrote in a letter to his East York was that Liberal backbench-ers remain rubber stamps vote and do as they're told, even if they don't believe it is right.

The letter came to light in the Commons Wednesday Conservative House Gerald Baldwin of leader Peace River read extracts from it, among them this: "... Liberal members of

Sanctions or Else

TSRAEL appears to have warned Arab nations that unless piratical attacks on El Al airliners are halted some form of massive retaliation may result.

The warning comes from Transport Minister Moshe Carmel, in language that can hardly be misunderstood.

It followed the machine-gunning and attempted bombing of an El Al airliner in Zurich by a gang which has admitted its connection with the Front for the Liberation of Palestine, based in Jordan. But the terrorists apparently used Beirut, in Lebanon, as their

It is, therefore, in that direction that any reprisal is likely to be aimed.
"The responsibility for such acts," said Mr.

Carmel, "is not only with the perpetrators but with the Arab states in which these acts are being planned and where the terrorists are being equipped.

Failure of Arab governments to check the saboteurs, he added, could lead to the destruction of the alrways of the Middle East. It has an ominous implication.
Mr. U Thant in the United Nations, and spokesmen for governments disposed to friendliness with Israel, are urging that that country refrain from retaliation. Israel made no unconcealed reprisal against Iraq for the hanging of alleged Jewish spies in Basra and Baghdad in January, in spite of Prime Minister Levi Eshkol's pledge of vengeance to his people. But the incident at Zurich still further strains the patience of a nation helpless to protect its nationals abroad against the organized attacks of terrorists, admittedly Arab.

I'srael's only recourse, it would seem, is through international sanctions against Arab states to force their joint action for control of their misguided

But the prospect of any such agreement is not The alternative, unhappily, is the sort of discouragement at which Mr. Carmel rather more than hints: destruction of aircraft of the Arab states on their own airfields, as in the case of the reprisal raid on Beirut. Once again the Middle East crisis glows uncomfortably hot.

Comical Canada

THE PERTINACITY of the federal government's desire to forge closer links with French-speaking nations of the world is apparently only exceeded by its determination to bring ridicule upon Canada and the

Canada's excursions abroad for this purpose during the past year or so have undoubtedly resulted in this country becoming a laughing stock among other member nations of the French-speaking community.

First there was the hassle last year between Ottawa and Quebec over official Canadian representation at the Gabon educational conference which ended up with Canada breaking off diplomatic recognition of the tiny French-speaking African republic.

This was followed by the visit to Paris of Quel Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal during which not only was the Canadian ambassador snubbed by President de Gaulle but certain agreements were signed between the province and the government of France which so annoyed External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp that he sent a "stiff protest" to Paris and handed out a "mild reproof" to Quebec. Then there was the Congo Kinshasa educational conference to which both Canada and Quebec were invited. On this occasion Quebec rejected Ottawa's proposal that the Quebec representatives form part of a single Canadian delegation, resulting in two separate groups from Canada attending the meeting-each flying its own flag and each playing its own independent role. And now we have the Niger conference of Frenchspeaking countries attended by-you guessed it-two separate delegations from Canada again. Only this time both groups have abandoned completely whatever dignity they might be suspected of possessing by staging a battle of flags for the entertainment if not edification of delegates from other countries.

There, this week, nations from all over the French-speaking world have been treated to the incredible spectacle of a group of high-ranking Canadian politicians and administrators fighting with each other over whose provincial flag would fly the highest. Quebec apparently won the contest, its delegates expressing satisfaction that the fleur-de-lis flag of Quebec was the largest and completely overshadowed Canada's national flag which was tangled in a tree.

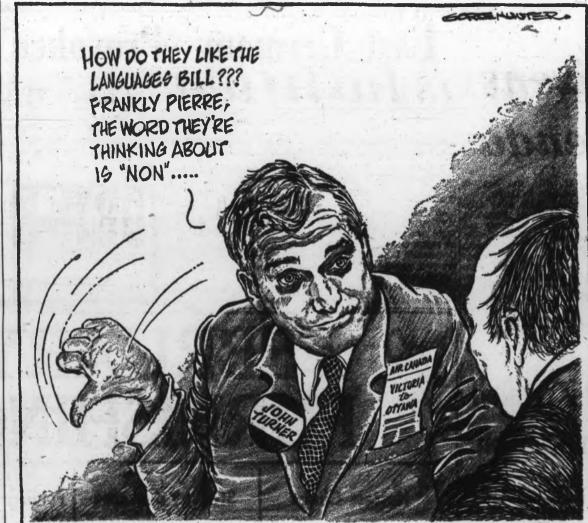

It has been widely stated that Canadian participation in these almost continual international conferences of French-speaking nations is very

No wonder. Any delegation with such a vaudeville routine would be more than welcome to provide comic relief for any meeting. We can hardly wait for the next act.

The Disruptive Few

IN the world emerging from the dark ages, the struggle for freedom of thought and educational progress stamped very deeply on our western civilization the image and belief in the necessity for intellectual freedom in our universities. It is ironic that this image is today militating against orderly progress and thought in univer-sities. It would seem not only university authority, but civil authority is confused and uncertain in the present turmoil.

All tradition and instinct is against hersh action against udents. The time has come to take a realistic view. Does intellectual freedom mean that a noisy, and for the most part, ignorant minority will be allowed to disrupt our slow and painful progress?

"An example of shining courage," declared supporters of then prime minister John Deifenbaker for his cancellation of the project which cost $450,000,000 and did not produce a plane which could fly with its designed engine.

"Economic treason," proclaimed the unions which represented a bout 13,800 workers immediately laid off by Avro. Some 3,000 were later rehired.

Diefenbaker maintains to this day that his government's Feb. 20, 1959, decision was the right one.

"The day of the bomber was over," he said Wednesday in an interview.

He said it would have cost $780,000,000 for 100 Arrows on top of the $450,000,000 development expenditure.

He said the record shows that the Liberal St. Laurent government had decided to cancel the project but to postpone the announcement until after the June, 1959, election.

To the surprise of the Liberals and nearly everybody else, Diefenbaker and the Conservatives won that election.

"We carried on the program while we reassessed it," he said.

"We then decided — unanimously — that pouring hundreds of millions of dollars into a plane which would contribute little or nothing to Canada's defence could not be justified."

Diefenbaker said the range of the Arrow was only 250 miles.

He said Avro thought it could "milk the Canadian taxoayer like a cow for ever." "The company made no attempt to control costs. It thought it could get away with

Most military men now concede that, strategically, Diefenbaker's decision was correct. Even today, Russia has only about 150 long-range

But in federal financing of research, Canada still has not recovered from the Arrow's demise.

Politically, the decision was disastrous for Diefenbaker.

In early 1959, the public opinion polls showed a phenomenal 62 per cent of the voting public behind him. From Feb. 20 that year, his popularity started its steep slide to the minority government of 1962, the defeat of 1963 and his ousting as Conservative leader in 1967.

Technologically, the decision was almost as disastrous because Canada today does not have what many would consider an adequate scientific community.

A wistful question is often asked here: What if all those Avro acientists and engineers had been put on to problems like urbanization, transportation, housing, pollution?

But the trained team broke up and dispersed. Many drifted to the U.S. and Britain. Some are working on the U.S. Apollo moon project. One insider said Wednesday: "The decision was right but the result was tragic."

After Avro was established in 1945, it sold the government some $1,000,000,000 worth of subsonic CF-100 interceptors and in 1953 launched the supersonic CF-105, also on the financial basis of the government paying all costs at least five per cent of these costs for profit.

It was originally calculated that the Arrow's development would cost about $200,000,000.

But by 1957 the costs had reached that amount and there was still four years of work ahead.

By HAROLD MORRISON, from London

Red China has renewed its propaganda war against the United States with indications that two incidents have shattered Western hopes that with a new president in the White House, Sino-American relations might improve leading to a reduction of tensions.

Such improvement might have been a helpful step to make it easier for Prime Minister Trudeau to recognize the Communist Chinese government without causing bad feeling in the United States.

Now the Sino-American atmosphere is so ominous that Canadian recognition at this stage might be seen in the U.S. as paying tribute to bellicosity in Peking. The incident which seemed to anger Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung unduly was the defection of Liao Ho-shu, the Chinese charge d'affaires in The Hague, now believed to be assisting intelligence agents somewhere

The Chinese government has accused the U.S. of engineering this defection and demanded his return.

Fears Reflected

While details of this unusual switch of loyalty are secret, the commotions and turmoil in Red China with factions splitting for and against Mao provide an inkling of the frustrations and fears that may be harbored by many of Mao's workers at home and abroad.

Whether Liao has any sigmilicant information to pass along to the U.S. is also conjectural but some commentators suggest that his importance may be promoted by having him broadcast anti-Mao propaganda to the Chinese mainland from Nationalist China.

In any case, Red China has suddenly cancelled talks in Warsaw, Poland, with the U.S., the first planned in more than a year, and opened a fresh barrage against Nixon, calling him clumsy, a braggard and a hypocrite.

At the same time Chinese gunboats have increased their interference with Hong Kong ship traffic, seizing three yachts containing an estimated 11 Westerners, including four Americans.

One Communist report suggests the ships' occupants might be held by the Chinese as hostages to back up demands for the return of the defected diplomat.

There is much doubt that Nixon would respond to such pressure. The result, however, is that Sino-American tensions may increase in an explosive area in which open conflict cannot be ruled out.

Right to Learn English Denied to Czech Refugees

UPI, from Montreal

Some 120 Czech refugees who fled to Canada after the Soviet invasion of their homeland have complained to Prime Minister Trudeau that they are being denied the right to learn English here.

The English-language newspaper The Montreal Star quoted the letter as saying that despite promises by the federal manpower department that English courses would be available to them, their start was "constantly postponed." The refugees said that after several weeks, they were assured that a program of five weeks French followed by 15 weeks of English instruction was being prepared for them, but this never materialized.

They said they now were "entertaining doubts whether we shall be granted the opportunity to obtain any English instruction at all."

The federal government earmarked $9,000,000 to aid

The receral government earmarked $9,000,000 to aid Czech refugees. The money has been used partly for housing, transportation, training and various courses.

A spokesman for the federal manpower department said that since education is constitutionally a provincial responsibility, the content of the language courses was left up to the provinces.

On Sept. 23, 1958, Diefenbaker announced that Canada would acquire the Bomarc anti-bomber missile and that a final decision on the Arrow would be made by March,

The plane's obsolescence could not have been more dramatically illustrated than it was on Oct. 4, 1957.

Avro had chosen that day for its formal roll-out of the Arrow before thousands of guests who had been handsomely wined and dined.

Unfortunately for the company, Russia had chosen that same day to launch the

New Sikorski-Type Saga Begins

Now It's Hammarskjold

From the London Sunday Times

For those who feel the who-killed-Sikorsky saga is beginning to pall, a new plane-crash mystery is on the way to being resurrected. It's what-really-happened-to-Dag Hammarskjold, and Conor Cruise O'Brien takes over the accuser's seat from Rolf Hochhuth.

Following news about his forthcoming play on The Congo, Murderous Angels, O'Brien's critics are asking what right have the New Playwrights to fictionalize fact and call it history.

Stephen Barlay, a Hangarian-born writer living in England, has been researching the whole subject of air crashes and feels the last act of the play is highly irresponsible. O'Brien's theory doesn't stand up at all," he said. "It seems to be wishful thinking."

O'Brien makes it clear in the play that he believes Hammarskjold's death was no accident. When it is announced on the stage, Moise Tshombe says: "Oh, my God, they've done it." Another answers: "A crash obviously, sabotage probably disaster certainly." There are other references in the stage, Moise Tshombe says: "Oh, my God, they've done it." Another answers: "A crash obviously, sabotage probably, disaster certainly." There are other references in which people talk of the "necessity" for Hammarskjold to dic. "The last act of Murderous Angels suggests Hammarskjold's plane crashed because a mercenary had been smuggled aboard," says Barlay. "But there is no definite evidence as to what caused the crash. O'Brien's theory seems to be to suit his political ideas, like the Sikorski business."

(Hochhuth's play Soldiers had Sir Winston Churchill ordering the death of Polish Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski, who also died in a plane crash.)

Barlay believes that Hammarskjold's pilot tried to come in without proper landing aids. "This often produces optical illusions, and undershooting the runway is a common cause of crashes."

He's also looked at the story that bullets were found in the bodies after the crash. "There were bullets in two bodies, but they were lodged subcutaneously, and there was no rifling on them." He realizes that O'Brien might not accept the word of the Rhodesian autopsy inquiry, but he says he also has the word of an RAF pathologist who examined the

O'Brien, who's teaching at New York University, sticks by his theory, although he'd admit it needs further investigation. "When you know that there were men in the area who had carried out other assassinations you are not disposed to accept theories about accidental death," he said on the telephone to London.

"Hammarskjold thought there might be an attack on the plane and flew with faked flight plans. The theories I have used in the play I regard as the most plausible ones."

Control

Library Change Doubted

There would be "little pur-pose" in bringing library serv-ices in Greater Victoria under regional control at present, according to the report of a subcommittee of the Greater Victoria Library Board. But the report said the regional district board could one day take over reponsibility for libraries, depending on new revenue sources, population growth and other factors.

LITTLE CHANGE At present, however, a switch in authority would result in very little change in Mbrary services The library is now operated by a board composed of represen-tatives of all four Greater Victoria municipalities.

Circulation of books vestly increased last year over the previous year's total, particularly in the children's section, which issued 203,069 volumes compared with 172,575 in 1967. The comparable totals for adult's books were 567,941 and

535,494. FEWER RORROWINGS

But the circulation figures still have not reached the record totals set in 1964, where there were 579,037 general books in curculation and 235,272 chil-

The circulation of books dropped off markedly in the years after 1964, a general trend noticed in other libraries across Canada and one for which librarians have offered no ex-planation.

Construction men also claim high export sales are contributing to local shortages, helping to spur prices upward. The men in the middle, the lumber retailers and building supply companies who buy from the timber companies, say the suppliers are ruthlessly exploiting the market. Dave Herd, president of B.C. Lumber Industries Ltd., a building supply company, is especially critical of rising plywood prices which he says have been climbing steadily "and mysteriously" since October.

He said the construction industry and the building supplies companies "are on a collision course" with the timber giants and lumber manufacturers.

Lumber brokers estimate prices have increased 20 per cent for all types of wood since Jan. 1, and hardwood supplies are "virtually dried up." The shortage, they say, probably will continue for another three or four months. Eric Helmer, B.C. regional vice-president of the National House Builders' Association,

Sky Spy, Ham Help Rescue

WASHINGTON (UPI) weather satellite 900 miles above the earth helped rescue a hospital ship from stormy sees by directing it to calmen waters, it was disclosed Wednesday.

The story was told by th Environmental Science Services Administration which operates the National Environmental Satellite Center at Suitland, Md

The vessel in trouble was the hospital ship Hope, operated by the People to People Foundation, a private organization established here in 1960 by Dr. William Walsh.

VOLUNTEERS

The ship, staffed by doctors and others serving voluntee tours of duty, goes from port to port in undeveloped countries helping to train local personne and treating difficult ailments.

It has spent 10 months at Colombo, Ceylon, and was outward bound for Durban, South Africa, when it got into trouble. Ten days out of Ceylon, it was taking its third straight day of pounding from high seas and winds off the southeast coast of Madagascar.

WHICH WAY?

Pipes were breaking below decks. The ship's structure was damaged. The captain wanted to run from the storm. His dilemma was that he didn't know which way.

Virgil Bowers, a ham radio operator at Massapequa, Long Island, N.Y., who once worked aboard the Hope and keeps in touch with it, called ESSA's natellite centre Tuesday.

TURN NORTH

Meteorologists Edward Fer-guson, Ralph Anderson, Lee Mass, and Walton Follansbee took a look at pictures taken by the weather satellite, ESSA 7, and got in radio communication with the Hope's master. They advised him to sail north.

After a while the centre received a report from the Hope, it said it was encountering better weather and less rough seas.

Apollo 9 Test Right On

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) - The Apollo 9 estronauts succonstully rehearsed Wednesday the final three hours of the countdown and launching-the day earth orbit flight scheduled to start Feb. 28. The successful test cleared the way for the launch team to start the six-day final countdown at 8:50 p.m.' PST Saturday

THREE SEALED

James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweikart donned spacesuits and were sealed in the Apollo 9 spaceship atop a Saturn V booster rocket as the countdown progressed flawlessly to the five-minute At that point a hold was called so Apollo radio communi cations would not interfere with the launch of a United States Navy Poseidon missile from another area of Cape Kennedy. During the hold a minor com munications problem was corrected quickly. The mock blastoff occurred at 8:54 a.m.

OCEAN TARGET

The navy's new Poseidon soaring over the Atlantic on its fourth test flight propelled a multiple-warhead package to an ocean target several hundred

Officials said the launch phase was successful, Possidon is being developed as successor to the submarine-launched Polaris missile.

The major goal of the Apollo mission is to test the lunar module, the spider-shaped vehicle which on later flights will transport two men to the moon.

Act No Solace for Vancouver Fans

VANCOUVER (CP) - Vancouver hockey fans are in for a disappointment if they expect that the federal Combines Investigation Act will force an early National Hockey League franchise here, a Vancouver economic consultant says. "For the last three years, action under the Combines Investigation Act has been held out as a possible means of getting the NHL to expand into Vancouver," Dr. James A. Sherbaniuk wrote in a recent article.

The act, in its present form, sport, he said. "And even if it ately the results would not improve Vancouver's NHL prospects for some time."

Ron Basford, consumer affairs minister, mentioned the possibility of eventually using act against the NHL in Parliament earlier this session. In February, 1966, he had introduced a private member's bill to amend the act to include professional sport, but it died after first reading.

And last May he suggested that a parliamentary committee be established to investigate the NHL and organized hockey in general.

As the act now is worded, the restrictive activities prohibited relate, with certain exceptions, to the production and distribution of articles or commodities, with the empha sis on goods rather than serv-

Dr. Sherbaniuk says only a few services-storage, transportation and rental of goods and the price of insurance on property or persons-are specifically outlined in the act. In the article, Dr. Sherban iuk said Mr. Basford has indicated that any amendments in the act will have to wait until the Economic Council of Canada completes its study-be-problems. Its report, which could possibly recommend including sport under the combines act, is not expected until May or June. Amendments would have to be drafted, debated in Parliament and finally made law. "It is unlikely, however, that this move alone . . . will scare the NHL into loosening its grip on new franchises.' Experience indicates that the league governors are not easily intimidated, he said. "If they should still refuse any overtures for expansion, duct an inquiry and to lay a formal charge against the NHL based on the new amendments.

"Allowing time for the preparation of the case, the trial, possible appeals-perhaps to the Supreme Court of Canada -the whole procedure, from council's recommendations to the ultimate court decision, could easily take two or three years.

"We could be well into the 1972 hockey season or beyond before the efficacy of these proposed amendments is

MONTREAL (CP) — Students at Sir George Williams University are back in classes interrupted last week when more than 100 students went on a rampage that caused an estimated $2,080,000 damage.

A university spokesman said "99.9 per cent of the building is functioning" for the downtown campus' 5,700 day students, who returned to classes Wednesday, and 12,000 night students, who returned Tuesday night.

Only the $1,000,000 ninth-floor computer centre was damaged beyond the point of hasty repair and arrangements were made to continue courses elsewhere for computer science students.

Big Little Store' Closing

By DON GAIN

The store that has everything - Jimmie Little's "big department store" will close for good May 31 after 49 years in business at Quadra and Pembroke:

The store, and seven lots from Pembroke to Green. with the exception of a house on the Green Street corner, have been sold for an undisclosed price to an unnamed that's about all. He'll be 80

Mr. Little's son-in-law and daughter, Don and Dorothy McAlpine, made the announcement Wednesday.

Mr. Little, gravely ill at his home in Hawaii, where he and his wife retired 10 years ago may well never know the business has been sold.

"He recognizes mother," Mrs. McAlpine said, "but the day before the store

Mr. McAlpine said there had been rumors about the future use of the property from drive-in restaurant to highrise apartment house. He said he knew only that it would be used for "property development" and the store would not be operated but probably would be torn down.

The present structure was built in 1928 and remodelled in the early 1950s. The original store, a tiny corner shop, was purchased by Mr. Little in 1920 from R. P. Butchart.

Mrs. McAlpine, who worked for her father from the age of five, said Wednesday it "so small you could hardly get into it.

An addition was joined to the tiny store soon after purchase, and yet another.

"Then we built a temporary store," Mrs. McAlpine said. There were two cedar trees on the property that father didn't want to cut down. So he left them, and they stuck up through the roof. We stacked potatoes around the trunks and hung pots and pans from Alpine said. She told the story of a man coming into the store to buy a collar stud. "Father didn't have any," she said, "but he took the one out of his own shirt and sold him that."

Story Told

A story was told by present-day customer that in-dicated the McAlpines, since they took over the store in 1955, kept up the tradition.

"One Sunday I needed paint," he said, "I bought it at Jimmie Little's. Another time I needed aluminum solder. They had that. Still another time I wanted a movie film splicer. They had that.

"One day I told Don Mc-Alpine he could probably produce an elephant if I wanted one. He said, 'What kind do you want, stuffed or

The store pioneered long hours of shopping and has been open from 9 a.m. til 2 a.m. including Sundays, from

The only time the Mc-Alpines could recall it being closed was in September 1968, when Victoria city council decided to clamp down or stores that staved open after 1 p.m. Wednesdays and after 6 p.m. other days.
"We had been told that anybody who stayed open after 1 p.m. that Wednesday would be prosecuted," Mr. McAlpine said. "We draped the corner window in black 'After a century of progress, Victoria dies today.' Then we closed the store. Council changed its mind the next week and we've been open ever since."

Quiet Way

Jimmie Little helped a lot of people in a quiet way, his son-in-law said Wednesday. One person he helped was David Chan, a Victoria boy who wanted to become a professional photographer. He couldn't get a licence from the city unless he had a studio, and he couldn't afford one. Jimmie Little fitted up a studio for him in the basement of the store. After getting his start as a photographer, Mr. Chan went on to photography school in southern California, where he worked as many as three jobs at once to pay his way.

Saanich Mayor Hugh Curtis envisaged elimination of the provincial level of government "as it affects the urban areas," in an address Wednesday night.

Cost to Inner Harbor Cited by Hovercraft

Hovercraft passenger service planned between Vancouver and Victoria would be more expensive than anticipated if a landing site were established in Victoria's Inner Harbor, the president of Pacific Hovercraft Ltd. said

The mayor gave this picture is an alternative to a complete restructuring of the provincial government system. He was speaking at a joint meeting in he Red Lion Inn of the Victoria chapter of the Administration Management Society with the Certified General Accountants and Society of Industrial Cost Accountants.

Restructuring of the provincial system would be by a redistribution of seats, he said, in order to afford urban areas a proper proportion of representation in the provincial houses.

Festivities will start off with Circus Queen Susan Loraas cutting the opening ribbon at 7:30 p.m. The Queen will be accompanied by her two princesses, blonde Lorna Hesp and dark-haired Dolores

The idea for a circus was broached by a student to staff eacher, Reg Reid. Two days later plans were underway. Now the whole student body in involved, as well as teach-

Tom Mayne, also a teacher, is in charge of the advertising and to show what a good job he's done, sales have reached nearly $2,000. Tickets are 25 cents apiece, so that means near 8,000 people have bought tickets.

The circus queen and princesses were chosen by popular vote among the students. There were 17 candidates who had managed to get the 10 signatures necessary to stand for the contest.

There is just about every variety of entertainment on the agenda. A variety show will take 35 to 40 minutes and will include folk singing, skits, jug band, candle dance and even male student belly dancers. The variety show will be presented three times at 8, 9 and 10

Nude Look Is for Fun

By EUGENIA SHEPPARD saying, "So what's so new about nudity?" NEW YORK - In his new collection. Norman Norell comes out loud and clear for pants, the pants suit evening pajamas and the nudest look to date.

"I do think they're important," he says. For evening pajamas are so importam they almost wipe out the conventional evening dress. even the showstopper glittertype for which Norell has always been famous.

"When I tried to think of a regular evening dress, I found I wasn't interested," Norell says, and I must say that many women are beginning to feel the same way.

Norell, whose city pants, shown by models with shingled hair, were shockers long before the Paris craze, has innovations for daytime, too.

To take the place of a old favorite, the silk print dress, he will show pants suits made small, abstract prints on both light and dark back-grounds, but absolutely no flowers. They are soft easy, with the pants midway between wide and narrow.

LOS ANGELES (CP) - Author George Plimpton described Sirban Bishara Sirban Wednesday as "enormously composed" immediately after the shooting of Senator Robert F. Kennedy and seemingly "purged."

Plimpton, a writer and editor, testified at Sirhan's murder trial that he helped disarm the young Jordanian Arab after the shooting.

The defence has contended that the 24-year-old Sirhan was in a trance at the time he shot Kennedy. Plimpton's comments defence questioned him.

Earlier a state witness, Mihael Anthony Saccoman, 22, said he was firing beside Sirhan on the San Gabriel Gun Club range the day before the assassination when Sirhan told him he was practising to go on a nunting trip. Saccoman said: "I told him that it was against the law because of the accuracy of the 22-calibre pistol."

He said Sirhan responded rather vaguely: "I don't know about that. It could kill a dog."

The .22-calibre revolver which Sirhan was practising with has been identified as the weapon used to kill Kennedy in the pan-try of the Ambassador Hotel here early the following morning of June 5, 1968.

Two earlier witnesses testified that Sirhan, a 24-yearold Jordanian immigrant, spent at least five hours on the pistol range and by the time he left was firing with great accuracy.

David Monellano said he saw Sirhan on the range and that when he left there were about 400 spent cartridges around Sir-

Claudia Williams, a 26-yearold blonde, said that when she press, 12:10 p.m. arrived at the range the same day, Sirhan appeared to be shooting with great accuracy. Red Lion Inn, 6 p.m.

Blame Denied by NDP For Texada Park Loss

Dave Stupich told the Legislature Wednesday the government shouldn't blame the New Democratic Party for the loss of a 235-acre waterfront park on Texada Island. Speaking during budget debate, Mr. Stupich referred to an aborted agreement involving a Crown land sale of 1.700 acres on Texada Island to German interests, Prince Johannes Von Thurn und Taxis.

Mr. Stupich said when anything good happened the government took the credit but when anything bad occurred the government blamed the opposition.

The deal which would have meant development of the 235-acre water-ton had blamed NDP protests which had "gummed up the whole thing" by causing the prince to "back off." "That's what he told me," said Mr.

The Crown owned two-thirds of the proposed logging parcel, Mr. Stupich said. The sale price had been proposed as $87 an acre, which the government apparently thought fair.

Mr. Stupich said adjoining land was reportedly selling at between $400 and $1,000 an acre. "If he was going to buy our share, why couldn't we have bought his share," Mr. Stupich asked. Someone on the Social Credit side interjected Mr. Stupich "is against German princes.'

Alice Potions

Two books which fascinated me in childhood were Lewis Carrol's Alice in Wonderland and Through the Looking Glass. I never tired of these stories, no matter how often they were read to me, and if I could run across these books today. I believe I could read them with the same delicious thrills as when I was

One bit of fantasy that particularly delighted me was that business of the "Take Me" potions, one of which made Alice grow as tall as a giant, while the other reduced her to the size of a mouse. Strangely enough, we have chemicals nowadays that have this same effect upon our plants.

One of these, gibberellic acid, causes plants to grow abnormally tall when sprayed on the foliage. It was discovered in Japan by plant scientists studying a fungus disease that devastates rice crops. It was noticed that at a certain stage in the progress of the disease, the rice plants would shoot up to an astounding height before succumbing to the infection. After much research, this growth factor was isolated from the fungus and identified as gibberellic acid.

The chemical is now manufactured synthetically and is marketed under various trade names such as Wonder-Brel, Gibrel and Merck's Plant-Stim, I have done a little experimenting with gibberelkic acid, and while the results were highly dramatic, I can't see that it is of much practical use to the backyard gardener. Cabbages ten feet tall have been produced through the use of gibberellins, although just why anybody would want a cabbage on a 10-foot stalk remains a mystery. I tried the stuff on one of my wife's African violets and the thing shot up to 14 inches tall, with a prominent main stem and with leaves reaching upward like a miniature Lombary popular, making a most unattractive plant.

We could never get it to bloom after treatment, and eventually it wound up on the compost heap. Lettuce sprayed with Plant-Stim grew tall in the same way and promptly went to seed without making a head.

* * * I believe gibberellic acid is being used in California vineyards; sprayed on the blossom clusters, the grape bunches elongate, becoming more open and less tightly packed, which in turn allows the individual grapes to swell to a better size. Dormant flower bulbs treated with the chemical will break dormancy and start into out-of-season growth.

Seems to me the trend today is toward dwarfer rather than tailer plants, and fortunately there are chemicals appearing on the market which have a dwarfing effect upon plants. These should be of much more use to the home gardener.

★ ★ ★ There is one, for instance, called B-Nine, which is the registered trademark of Naugatuck Chemicals. The label on the plastic bottle doesn't give the name of the basic chemical it contains, but I imagine it is the same as Phosphon. used by the commercial growers of potted houseplant chrysanthemums to produce compact and short-stemmed plants.

Instructions are to dilute the B-Nine with water and apply to the foliage as a fine, misty spray when the leaves are dry but the soil moist.

Best results are when the plants are sprayed while still quite small; treated plants become mature and start to bloom while still only a fraction of the normal height. In this way it is possible to grow tiny flowering plants of salvia, coxcomb, Christmas pepper, geraniums or what have you.

Thick and the Thin

WASHINGTON - I had lunch with Gen. Blunderbuss at the Army-Navy Club the other day and I decided it would be a good time to ask him about the controversial anti-ballistic missile system. "General, do we really need an ABM system?" "Of course we do. The military wouldn't push for it unless it was absolutely necessary," the general replied. "Would we?"

"Probably not. But there seems so much confusion about it. For one thing you call it a 'thin' shield. That in itself doesn't give you much confidence in it."

"Of course it doesn't," the idea. If we call it a 'thin' shield, then Americans will demand a 'thick' shield and that's what we wanted in the "Why didn't you propose a you down to five. "But the critics say that the thin shield would have no effect as far as the Russians are concerned."

"The thin shield is not aimed at the Russians. It's aimed at the Chinese. When the Chinese have their ICBM missiles, we've going to need something to stop them.

"Then the thick shield you'll build after the thin shield will take care of the Soviet missiles?"

"Not necessarily. We're not Blunderbuss said. "And that's . sure that by the time we build a thick shield it will work." 'Why build it then?'

HOLLYWOOD (NANA) - When Elizabeth Taylor completes her Las Vegas locationing in The Only Game in Town, she and Richard Burton will fly to Puerto Vallerta their honeymoon hideaway, if you remember — where Elizabeth will rest her aching back. She leaves in June for London with Richard, who will star in the film version of Anne of a Thousand Days, with Genevieve Bujold,

No more work for Elizabeth this year and she never should have started up again so soon after her operation in the summer. Richard had wanted her to rest and tried to put his foot down. But Elizabeth, anxious to disprove the rumors of serious illness, was determined to work as soon as possible. She definitely will not do Myra Breckinridge. This is just as well. Elizabeth could never look like a man-woman.

I thought Maureen O'Hara had retired from the screen. She made the statement after the recent marriage to her alrline pilot. Now she is starring in Let Me Count the Ways, with Jackie Gleason, and is hanging on to her home in Hollywood. How can a woman who has worked all her adult life, give it all up?

Julie Andrews' Star! cost so much to make, the film will take a long while to get its money back. I understand the film is not doing as well as 20th Century-Fox had hoped, which again proves what I have been contending for some - it's the story, not the star, on today's eager, but selective movie market.

For the first time since George III built the ornate onlondomed Royal Pavilion at Brighton in the south of England, the strange compound will be seen in a Hollywood movic. Barbra Streisand's On a Clear Day, You Can See Forever film with Yves Montand, will location there for 10 days near the end of March.

Irene Papas has decided that she will live in this country, rather than return to her native Greece with its present government. She is starring with Anthony Quinn in I Dream Kings, and is shopping for a Broadway play for next season. Her countrywoman, Melina Mercouri, who feels the same way as Irene about the present bosses in Greece, was in Paris when last heard from, after finishing, Gaily, Gaily for Norman Jewison here.

Love's the Answer

We can endure a wide variety of discomfort. We withstand poverty and the perils of physical danger. Yet, life seems to run out into the depths if deep down within us there is a gnawing sense of loneliness.

As children we exhibit the fears of abandonment. We crave the light, shun the darkness. We are comforted when we are certain that a beloved is close at hand.

No matter how old or grey we grow, we never outgrow the heart's craving for the understanding and sympathy of someone who cares.

We never move beyond the need for the wisdom of Genesis: "It is not good for man to be alone."

Indeed, at the very heart of all human bereavement are aches and pains of loneliness, the forlorn feelings of having been utterly and finally abandoned.

Is there no answer. therapy for our ills? Are there no ways in which we may fortify our lives against that dark feeling of being adrift on wide sea, with no cone to hold our hand? There are,

First, we ought to understand what causes loneliness. People are lonely because they run away from unpleasant reality. We wish to have limitless pleasure and, often, are unwilling or unable to endure its absence.

We cringe before the demands life makes of us. We close our eyes to the sordid, the difficult, and the torment-

VANCOUVER (CP) -British Columbia's billion-dollar timber industry appears to be on a collision course with construction companies and the province's militant trade union movement over a "critical shortage" of logs for domestic building.

Construction industry officials and union spokesmen blame a combination of B.C.'s long winter freeze-up and timber companies' greed for skyrocketing lumber prices they say are bound to lead to cutbacks in house-building and general construction during the next few weeks.

Grandparents Wanted To Complete Family

A Duncan couple has enough children-now it wants to "adopt" a grandparent for them. The couple, which has already adopted four wants to expand the family a little more to include a "Grannie or Granddad. The couple doesn't think children should grow up without knowing the affection and knowledge of elderly people. Since they don't have any grandparents available to their family, they decided to try "adopting" one.

They made their appeal to H. J. Vickers of Duncan, a voluntary counsellor appointed by the provincial government to assist senior

The Minister Without Portfolio area to event sites, to avoid Grace to guarantee access to Garibaldi Park should the 1976 Winter Olympics come to B.C.

The reconfirmation of the B.C. government's intentions came apparently as an answer to a recent suggestion form a Vancouver aiderman that the government should make some statement in light of the landslides that have blocked off the Squamish highway.

YOUBOU -- Grade is a word which Yount elementary school teachers have not used since the continuous progress system was introduced in Sep-

"There are three different systems," said principal Terry Taylor.

"The graded school is when all children do the same work in the same time.

progress is when all children do whatever work they need in whatever time is needed.

"We are past the level system but not quite into the continuous progress."

Mr. Taylor said that they have a pink piggy bank in the school staff room and if anyone uses the word grade in their conversation the penalty is a nickel in the bank.

"We want to eliminate the grade child," he said. "With that system, if you have a grade 3 student working on Grade 4 material, they think they are better. If you have a student working on a grade lower material, it destroys their ego.

It does away with failing a student. We find students work best where we have them and we are trying to eliminate calendar aspect."

"I predict that within five to 10 years, all elementary schools will be on the continuous progress system," said Mr. Taylor.

To be a succes, all the teachers have to believe in it. We have 232 students—this is the right size school for such an experiment."

INTERVIEW PROVED expensive for principal Terry Taylor. As word grade is banned in Yount school, he had to put nickel into piggy bank every time he used it.

Financial critic David Stu-(NDP-Nanaimo) said in March, 1968, this surplus was waiting to be used by the citizens of B.C. The Socred boast of "no direct debt," he said, was

"proof of failure if you've got money sitting in the

Mr. Stupich said that over the last 10 years, Premier Bennett had underestimated spending by $400,000,000. This was not a planned surplus, Mr. Stupich said. In the last three years, he said, the surplus amounted to $238,000,000. He said the test of good financing was not how much surplus or debt there was, but "have we used it

Mr. Bennett's budget statement that the government had "harvested" fiscal resources during periods of excess de-mand on capital markets, meant really that the gov-ernment had reaped $4,500,-000,000 in taxes.

Mr. Stupich said that 32 cents out of every revenue dollar on the PGE railway went to debt charges, but that this was acceptable because the PGE provided a service. "We're all proud of B.C. Hydro," Mr. Stupich said, for which 37 cents in every dollar went to debt charges. Mr. Stupich said that 65 per cent of the 18-per-cent budget increase, which put it over the billion-dollar mark, came

The second-highest increase in the budget was from further contributions from the federal government ($5,000,-000) and the third-highest increase was from personal and corporate income taxes ($27,000,000)

Mr. Stupich said that 45 per cent of provincial revenue "came back" from Ottawa.

"We all know the terrific hospital bed shortage," school needs and regional college nceds, he said. "A debt would not be considered a failure" if it was helping to pay for these deficiences, "but money sit-ting in the bank is proof of

Blame Denied by NDP For Texada Park Loss

Dave Stupich told the Legislature Wednesday the government shouldn't blame the New Democratic Party for the loss of a 235-acre waterfront park on Texada Island.

Speaking during budget debate, Mr. Stupich referred to an aborted agreement involving a Crown land sale of 1,700 acres on Texada Island to German interests, Prince Johannes Von Thurn und Taxis.

Mr. Stupich said when anything good happened the government took the credit but when anything bad occurred the government blamed the opposition.

The deal which would have meant development of the 235-acre waterfront park fell through and Mr. Williston had blamed NDP protests which had "gummed up the whole thing" by causing the prince to "back off."

"That's what he told me," said Mr. Williston.

The Crown owned two-thirds of the proposed logging parcel, Mr. Stupich said. The sale price had been proposed as $87 an acre, which the government apparently thought fair.

Mr. Stupich said adjoining land was reportedly selling at between $400 and $1,000 an acre.

"If he was going to buy our share, why couldn't we have bought his share," Mr. Stupich asked.

Someone on the Social Credit side interjected Mr. Stupich "is against

Strachan Still Choice

NANAIMO - Nanaimo MLA Dave Stupich announced Wednesday he would not contest the NDP leadership race because he intended to ask provincial party leader, Bob Strachan to reconsider his retirement.

"The really odd thing is that people told us to watch out for the Arabs. Nothing disappeared when we were in the Arab countries, but the bus was pinched for 27 hours when we were in Manhattan Beach, near Los Angeles.

"We have found that British firms are just not interested in advertising or promotion. Not one of them offered us any kind of help. Yet we have been sponsored and have done publicity things in countries around the world. It made us think a bit about British businessmen," he said.

The 26,000-member International Woodworkers of America has called for a six-month case domestic shortages and panies say relatively few logs are exported and these are logs that wouldn't be used by builders in this province. About 8,000 IWA men are out of work in logging camps that are buried under four to five feet of snow in northern and interior B.C. Ian Barclay, president of said: "Because of the deep other factors we shall be lucky to reach 40 per cent of our capacity by March.' With a log-hungry struction industry bidding prices up to meet building commitments, the average house buyer is paying about Forest Products Ltd., $1,000 more in lumber costs
